The Newsletter of the Northeastern Society of Plastic Surgeons
January 2004

From the President...

Our founding members outlined the mission of the Northeastern Society of Plastic Surgeons as follows:

1. To provide a forum for the continuing education of the membership in the art and science of aesthetic, plastic, and reconstructive surgery. The primary vehicle to this end will be the annual scientific program.
2. To identify and address the most pertinent needs of the membership in the practice of plastic surgery: educational, medicolegal, social, and financial.
3. To provide a climate for productive social interaction and fellowship for the membership.
4. To familiarize the membership with the geography, history, and many other resources of the Northeast.

The recent meeting in Baltimore, the 20th annual meeting of the society, certainly fulfilled all of the criteria within this mission statement. The educational program was outstanding, the pre-symposium meeting on medical malpractice and advocacy was timely and well-received, and the social program provided precisely the type of fellowship the founding fathers would have envisioned.

The 2004 meeting of the society will be held in Naples, Florida on January 19-23, 2005 (note 2005) at the Naples Beach Hotel and Golf Club. The schedule of competing meetings in 2004, including the ASPS in Philadelphia, precludes us from using our usual Fall time slot. The 2004 meeting, therefore, will not be held in the calendar year 2004, rather it will be held in January 2005. For the first time the meeting is both outside the normal September-November time period and outside the Northeast region. We are committed to making this experiment a success.

Dr. Geoff Gurtner, one of my colleagues at NYU and a great surgeon, will organize the scientific program. While we will maintain our tradition of a competition for plastic surgery residents, the program will concentrate on practical, clinical issues germane to our membership. Papers will be solicited from the practitioners among us, not just the academicians. The social program is already being developed and will include a golf tournament organized by Dr. Steve Colen. As the year progresses and it becomes clear which issues within plastic surgery are the most timely, those issues will be integrated into the program. The Florida location also allows interaction with the Florida Society of Plastic Surgeons and the Southeastern Society of Plastic Surgeons, whose membership will be invited to our meeting.

The Society is in sound financial condition. The second decade fund, which was initiated 10 years ago, has surpassed its goal of raising $100,000 by the 20th anniversary. This provides the society with an endowment to fund the annual Gene Courtiss lecture and other visiting speakers.

It is a privilege to be your president. With the help of the Board and Catherine Foss, our Executive Director and her staff, we are committed to "raising the bar" in Naples by providing the most educational, timely and fun meeting in our 20 year history.

From the Past President

In reflecting on the last year and my Presidency of The Northeastern Society of Plastic Surgeons, I am reminded of what a great year it has been for our society and its members. I have chosen to note a few random and salient thoughts and let you, the reader, do the rest.

I think this year has brought positive change. Our National Society (ASPS) participated in our annual meeting in Baltimore. Despite a strong academic focus, for the first time, our meeting included a forum for political and economic issues.

Robert Goldwyn, in his last year as editor of PRS, delivered the Courtiss lecture and demonstrated his skills as a leader, teacher, man of compassion and a great thinker. Barbi Courtiss was present making the lecture even more moving. Attendance at our meeting in Baltimore was among the best ever for our society and we as members should derive comfort from the renewed vitality and cohesiveness of our group. We were lucky enough to have Jim Wells, then President of the ASPS to give the keynote speech and this seemed to tie together our efforts to bring practical issues which are salient to our membership to the forefront of our meetings. Fundraising for our society was at a record level and special thanks should be extended to all the companies and friends who committed financial assistance. I would especially like to thank Stryker-Leibinger, LifeCell, Synthes-Maxillofacial and Padgett Instruments for their special generosity and support.

I think the continued success of our Society is based on the people who comprise it. To that end, I have tried to introduce youth and diversity as much as possible, but I believe there is more to do. I have had the privilege of working with superb individuals and I want to formally recognize them. Particularly our board members Charlie Thorne, Kenneth Marshall, David Leitner, Mark Granick and Joseph Disa, Catherine Foss and her staff, and the Membership at Large.

I look forward to many years of growth and prosperity for our society. I wish all our members and their loved ones a very healthy and prosperous 2004.
